LOCUST HOUSE

Hop off the El, grab lunch at the corner, do a little shopping on 52nd Street, and come home to a cheerful, fully-furnished residence. Locust House is located on a quiet, friendly block in the heart of West Philadelphia.

At Locust House, Redemption Housing provides private rooms in West Philadelphia to male returning citizens. The house is designed to be a comfortable and dignified foundation as you take your next steps in setting up a new life on the outside.

Residents of Locust House share the best of both worlds — the comfort of stable housing without the expense of having to fill it with furniture.

LOCUST HOUSE FEATURES:

- ▼ Three private bedrooms.
- ▼ A renovated bathroom.
- ▼ Brand new kitchen appliances.
- ▼ A shared living and dining area, complete with an HDTV and Netflix.
- ▼ High-speed internet throughout the home.

Residents of Locust House have been released within the past one to five years and have already developed a supportive foundation within their community. Residents can remain in this program for up to two years. Residents are required to maintain a regular income, remain clean and sober, and pay a monthly program fee. They are also partnered with volunteer mentors from one of Redemption Housing's Connecting Congregations.

“Locust House is so much nicer than I expected! Living here has given me the chance to figure things out and find a new job. It is exactly what I was looking for.”
